"Man small. Why fall? Skies call. That’s all.” Andy Keech, Skies Call

The freedom of freefall, the peacefulness of the parachute ride, the camaraderie that lasts a lifetime . . . from start to finish, this is what brings a diverse cross section of individuals together. It is our shared passion — "Skies call. That’s all.”

What better place to share your passion for this great sport than with 300 of your closest friends at the 2017 International Skydiving Hall of Fame Celebration Event September 21–23 at Chicagoland Skydiving Center (CSC), Rochelle, Illinois? Our annual weekend fundraiser of jumping, celebrating, catching up with old friends and making new ones, and chatting with skydiving’s legends, has become the go-to event for the skydiving community! And you won’t want to miss the highlight of the weekend . . . the induction of the Class of 2017 into the International Skydiving Hall of Fame. The weekend is expected to raise $100,000 for the museum. You won’t want to miss it!

The Early Bird Registration/ Packet Pick-up will be Thursday, September 21, from 4 pm to 8 pm, in the Pope Valley Pioneers Lounge at CSC. CSC will offer complimentary shuttle service to/from local hotels throughout the weekend (contact information will be available closer to the event). A welcome reception will be held at the Pioneers Lounge, sponsored by Pope Valley Parachute Ranch (Curt Curtis and Tim Saltonstall), Thursday from 4 pm to 10 pm. The lounge will also be open for libations and conversation Friday from 12 noon to 10 pm and Saturday from noon to 4 pm.

Every year, as part of our Hall of Fame Celebration event, the weekend festivities include paying tribute to an entity that has been a major influence in the leadership and growth of our sport. CSC, together with Pat Thomas (Museum Trustee), will organize a Tribute Jump to this year’s Honoree: PIA and its Founding Members. This Tribute Jump will be on Friday afternoon and will be followed by the Welcome BBQ.

The Celebration Event is all about celebrating the induction of five truly remarkable individuals to the International Skydiving Hall of Fame, for their lifelong commitment to the sport of skydiving. The International Skydiving Hall of Fame Class of 2017 is Richard "Buzz" Bennett, Roy C. Johnson (posthumous), General John "Jack" K. Singlaub, Graeme K. Windsor, and Pat Works (posthumous). Larry Bagley (Museum Trustee) will coordinate with CSC to honor the 2017 Hall of Fame inductees, who have put their unique and distinctive stamp on our sport, with a Tribute Jump. PIA has graciously returned for its eighth year as the Hall of Fame Banquet and Induction Ceremony Presenting Sponsor.

The Pro-Am Scrambles have become a way to get superstars and jumpers of varied experience together to get involved in the weekend celebration. It is a competition for all jumpers with wide-ranging experience, and a chance to jump with the best skydivers from CSC. Each team will consist of a PRO Team Captain who will draw three other names to fill out the 4-way team. The competition includes four jumps with video, professional team photos and a day of coaching from the PROS — and an all-around fantastic 4-way experience.

Of course, there will be fun jumping going on all weekend. CSC has lots of ideas to add some interesting twists to your fun jumping.

So join us the weekend of September 21–23 at Chicagoland Skydiving Center, Rochelle, Illinois. You can use the enclosed form to register or visit our website beginning in mid-June for registration information. You can also show your support with various sponsorship opportunities, including having banners displayed all weekend and by making monetary contributions that will be recognized in the weekend program book.

Introducing the Hall of Fame Class of 2017...

Richard “Buzz” Bennett, Canadian D-71, is one of Canada’s foremost sport parachuting personalities, with more than 6,300 jumps since making his first in 1966. He chaired the Competition and National Teams Committee of the Canadian Sport Parachute Association (CSPA) from 1975 through 1991, and during that time created its Judge Rating Program and authored a Canadian Judge Training Manual, which is still in use today. He was chief judge at four World Parachuting Championships in the 1980s, as well as the chief of judge training at the 1991 World Championships. He is still an active judge. Buzz served as Canada’s delegate to the International Parachuting Commission (IPC) for 40 years, retiring in 2015. During his tenure, he sat on the Style & Accuracy, and Canopy Piloting Committees and chaired the Sporting Code Working Group, and the Rules & Regulations Committee. He was the IPC Treasurer for 14 years as a member of the IPC Bureau. FAI awarded him the 1983 Paul Tissandier Diploma (for serving the cause of general aviation), the 1999 IPC Leonardo da Vinci Diploma (for specific achievements in sport parachuting), and CSPA honored him with its highest non-competitive award, the 2005 Glenn Masterson Memorial Trophy for services to CSPA and Canadian parachuting. Buzz is a commercial pilot with more than 1,200 hours, many of them flying jumpers.

Roy C. Johnson, D-589, made his first jump in 1961 at the Cleveland Parachute Center, Parkman, Ohio, and was one of America’s most accomplished competitors during the late 1960s and early 1970s in the classic events of style & accuracy. Known for his dedicated training regimen and being years ahead of his time, especially as a stylist, he was a four-time National Overall Champion, being the first person to average under seven seconds in the style event at the U.S. National Championships. Roy was the favorite to become Men’s Overall World Champion at the 1972 World Championships in Tahlequah, Oklahoma, before he was forced to withdraw due to a major injury. Roy was a true professional who gladly gave of himself as a mentor and coach so the next generation of competitors might also succeed. He coached the U.S. Team to gold medal Women’s and silver medal Men’s parachute teams at the 1976 World Championships in Italy. He was the first skydiver to be awarded the USPA 24-hour Freefall Badge and ended his illustrious career with 4,522 skydives. Roy was an accomplished jump pilot for several drop zones and later became an airline pilot for Continental Airlines. Although he was notified of his honor into induction into the International Skydiving Hall of Fame Class of 2017, he passed away in April.

Major General John “Jack” Singlaub, B-508, graduated from UCLA with an Army Reserve commission in 1943 and went straight to jump school. While serving in a parachute regiment at Fort Benning, Georgia, he joined the Office of Strategic Services (OSS, later the CIA), and was inserted by parachute into occupied France to organize, train, and lead a French Resistance unit during World War II, which provided assistance to the Allied invasion forces. He served as a security and defense advisor to several U.S. presidents — from Roosevelt to Carter — retiring in 1977 as a two-star general. Fortunately for the skydiving community, he became involved in promoting skydiving within the military community, ultimately leading the effort to allow military personnel to skydive on military installations and “off post” with the civilian community, thereby benefitting both. He went on to assume leadership positions on the Parachute Club of America (forerunner of USPA) board as a national director and chairman of the board, leaving the board in 1975 after 10 years. During his tenure, he was key in gaining aircraft support for U.S. Parachute Teams and for the 1972 World Parachuting Championships in Tahlequah, Oklahoma. He also served as head of delegation for the 1965 U.S. Parachute Team that competed at the Adriatic Cup in Europe. He’s a USPA Lifetime member.

Graeme K. Windsor, Australian F-59, has devoted his life to skydiving since his first jump in October 1968 in Papua New Guinea. He has won many Australian National Championships medals in style, accuracy, para-ski, and formation skydiving and has competed extensively in FIA World Championships, winning the 1982 Team Accuracy bronze medal in Lučenec, Czechoslovakia. He has been a national coach, operations and safety manager, chief instructor, instructor examiner, and a parachute rigger. He was a member of the Australian Parachute Federation (APF) board, which included stints as chairman, alternate IPC delegate and later the delegate. He was the APF Chief Executive Officer, retiring in 2008. Graeme has served in almost every capacity during his illustrious career including terms as Head of Delegation, Controller and Jury member at several world championships. He is the longest-serving President of the FAI’s International Parachuting Commission (nine years). The FAI made him a Companion of Honor and he is an FAI President of Honor having served as President of the Air Sports General Commission from 2011 to 2016. Graeme still jumps regularly with over 7,000 jumps and he competed at the 2016 World Parachuting Championships at Skydive Chicago. He is the Air Sport Australia Confederation treasurer and is a member of the organizing committee for the 2018 World Parachuting Championships to be held in Queensland, Australia.

Pat Works, D-1813, was an avid promoter of sequential formation skydiving (a.k.a. relative work) since his first jump in 1961 at the Houston Parachute Club. For the next half-century, Pat’s passion was to share the joy of freefall, publishing the RWUnderground Newsletter along with his wife, Jan. His words instructed, entertained and inspired skydivers worldwide, and his first book, The Art of Freefall Relative Work, was translated into three languages. He wrote two more books: United We Fall, and The Art of vRW. Pat conducted many free training camps in Australia, England, France, Germany, and the USA to teach freefall techniques. He was instrumental in introducing 10-way competition at the USPA Nationals in 1972, and founded a grassroots RW Council for sharing ideas, debate, and news. He competed throughout his skydiving years, and served on USPA’s Board of Directors from 1981 to 1987. Pat was honored by USPA with the 2013 Gold Medal for Meritorious Service, “For over 50 years of contribution as a teacher, innovator, author and competitor…” His final gift to the sport before passing in late 2016 with over 8,200 jumps is the Skydiving Encyclopedia, an online collaborative “wiki” for the International Skydiving Museum & Hall of Fame.
