"The time is now. . . Let's get this museum built!" was the mantra from National Skydiving Museum board of trustees president Lenny Potts at the August 13th weekend skydiving celebration in DeLand, Florida. "I think we are all feeling the urgency to have our sport properly recorded in history.

We must raise the money we need NOW to build this museum."

When the weekend was over. . . after the 50-way formation skydivers had formed a "K" to honor Joe Kittinger's 50th anniversary of his jump from space and the inaugural Hall of Fame Induction Dinner had recognized eleven of the sport's legends, more than $110,000 had been raised toward the $6 million goal to build the museum.

The weekend also featured members of the U.S.

included current and historical skydiving displays dating back to the 1960s contributed by PIA and the USPA.

The 2010 National Skydiving Museum Hall of Fame Inductees were honored in front of 330 guests at a sit down dinner sponsored by PIA. The eleven inaugural inductees are Lowell Bachman (posthumous), Jerry Bird, Georgia "Tiny" Broadwick (posthumous), Joe Crane (posthumous), Joe Kittinger, Eilif Ness, Bill Ottley (posthumous), Lew Sanborn, Cheryl Stearns, Ted Strong, and Gene Paul Thacker.

"LET'S GET THIS MUSEUM BUILT!"

Capital Fundraising Campaign . . . to build the museum

The high standards the museum strives to achieve can only be accomplished through significant financial support from those who believe in its mission and who desire to further its progress. Your investment is an important step to capture and share with the public the history and fascination of one of mankind's most exciting endeavors. We are asking you today to make a donation to bring the museum to fruition. All donations are tax deductible to the fullest extent of the law.

Memorial Bricks. . . a donation that will last a lifetime

Celebrate the life of someone with whom you've shared precious moments with a National Skydiving Museum memorial brick. As you honor the memory of a loved one or memorialize someone special, your gift also provides much needed funding to build the museum. You are invited to participate in the Memorial Brick Program at a special rate of $1,000 (payable at one time or up to 12 easy monthly credit card payments.) The memorial bricks are sure to become a gathering place at the museum and all who purchase a brick will receive a small "thank you" brick to acknowledge their contribution to the museum. Use it as a paperweight or add a magnet and put it on your refrigerator. To secure your brick, indicate your interest on the form below, visit the museum's website or contact the museum office.

Equipment Donations . . . save our parachute history

The National Skydiving Museum seeks to secure historical parachute equipment and documents before they disappear. They are our history. Once they are disposed of, they are gone—forever. Equipment and document donations are tax deductible. Visit the museum's website or contact the museum for additional information.

Be a part of skydiving history . . . make your donation today!
